

Robert Dale Klein — Singer | Songwriter | Storyteller

Based in Austin, TX, award-winning singer-songwriter and multi-instrumentalist Robert Dale Klein creates music that resonates with heart, honesty, and lived experience. Drawing from decades of life, love, loss, and joy, his songs offer plainspoken storytelling in the rich tradition of Americana — music that feels both timeless and deeply personal. He writes “songs for people who listen to the lyrics.”

His published recordings include the acclaimed full-length album This Side of the Dirt (2018) and a string of evocative singles such as Thin Places (2025), The Leavin’ Door (2025), Out of the Darkness (2024), Tír na nÓg (2023), and the heartfelt duet I Wonder What You See (2021). Robert’s songs have found life beyond the studio — featured on radio and television, in film and musical theater, and performed across stages in the U.S. and overseas.

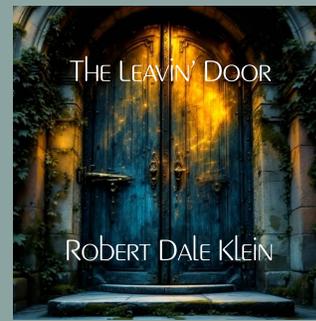

A generous collaborator as well as a solo artist, Robert has co-written with an impressive circle of critically-acclaimed songwriters, including Dan Navarro, Phil Madeira, Will Kimbrough, Cindy Morgan, Jennifer Ferguson Smith, Sasha Lazard, and others — friendships that have deepened both his craft and his creative reach. His work has been recognized by major industry organizations, receiving honors from Country Music Television (CMT), the Nashville Songwriters Association International (NSAI), the Mid-Atlantic Song Contest, and the Berklee College of Music, among others.

Robert’s music is more than a collection of songs — it’s an invitation to walk “this side of the dirt” with him: honest, reflective, and alive with the moments that make us human.
